U. S. Ready to Go Ahead With Summit Meet

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Officials said today the United States is ready to go ahead with next month's NATO summit conference without President Eisenhower's participation if the other Allied governments decided that is the best thing to do.

The President's sudden illness dealt a blow, however, to the plan for a dramatic demonstration of Allied unity at this time in the face of Russia's growing scientific and military prowess.

The project for gathering heads of government for a conference in Paris Dec. 16-19 had been built largely around Eisenhower's personality and leadership.

With his prestige, he was to take the lead in proposals for modernizing Allied military systems with missiles and atomic stockpile and for a greater pooling of scientific resources.

If the Allied governments want to go ahead with a summit session, it was understood that Vice President Nixon would be designated to substitute for Eisenhower.

Should they prefer to postpone the conference, it may be reset for next spring in the expectation that the President would then be able to attend. Meanwhile, the ministers for foreign affairs, defense and finance of the 15 NATO countries would meet as they ordinarily do in December to set in motion the plans for greater Allied unity.

Congressmen Watch Firing of Missile

By BEN FUNK

MISSILE TEST CENTER, CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Six congressmen watched last night as the Army fired a big Jupiter 1,500-mile-range rocket that failed to complete its planned flight.

Moments after the 70-foot intermediate range ballistic missile blazed into the tropic sky, the Army issued a statement saying it failed to complete its programmed flight because of technical difficulties.

To hundreds of spectators watching along the beach on this island midway along the Florida east coast, the Jupiter was a spectacular sight as it rose from a pillar of smoke and flame on the launching pad.

It appeared to travel straight up, trailing a yellow flame. Then it became a surplus light high in the sky. It was visible for about four minutes and was brighter than any star.

The statement by the Defense Department said only that the missile failed in its programmed flight because of technical difficulties and added: "This test of the Jupiter, under development by the Army, is one of a series of intermediate range and intercontinental ballistic missile tests conducted at the Cape Canaveral range."

There was no official explanation of what technical difficulties were involved.

Congressmen who witnessed the firing were members of a military subcommittee of the House Committee on Appropriations, headed by Rep. Mahon (D-Tex.).

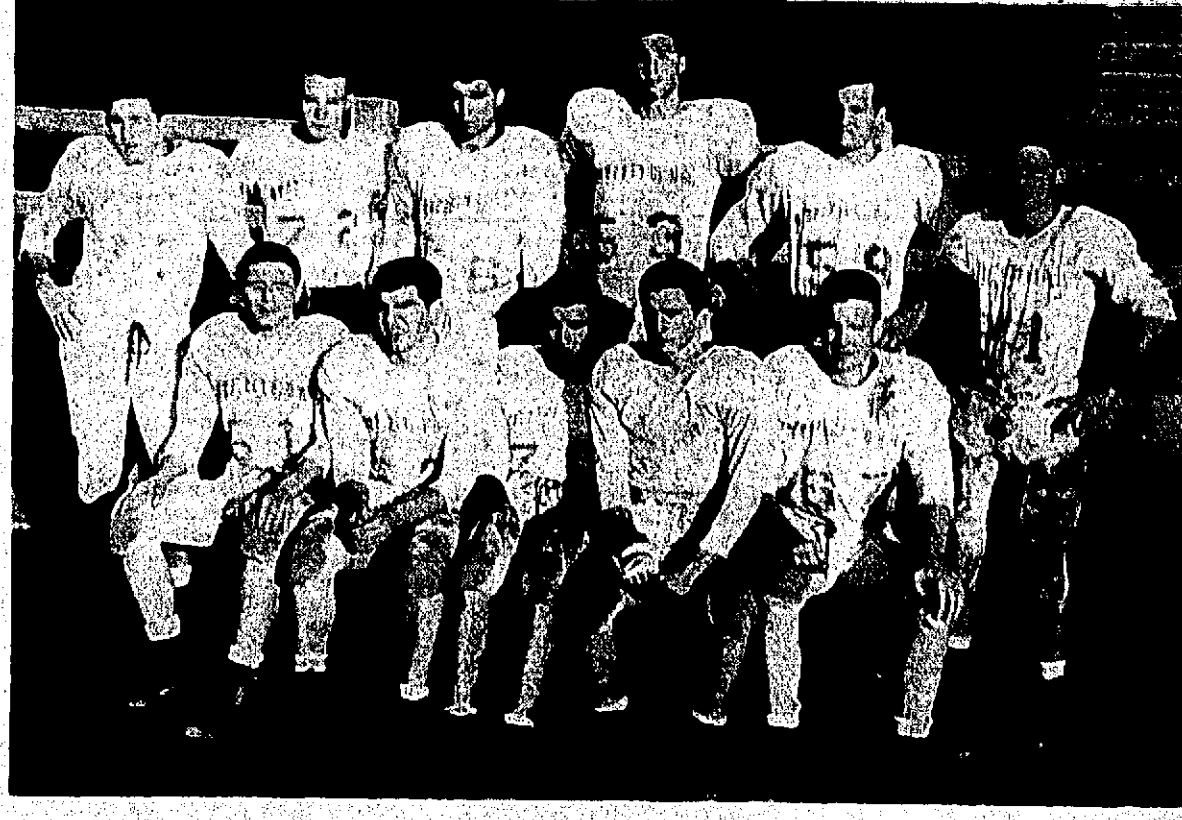

Earlier in the day Dr. von Werner von Braun, developer of the Jupiter, arrived in a private plane but was not available to newsmen.

There were reports that the big Atlas, an intercontinental ballistic missile, might be fired next week. The Navy's Vanguard, a three-stage rocket designed to put an American satellite in the sky, also has been seen on the launching ramps.

Two previous attempts have been made to fire the Atlas. Each time, on June 11 and Sept. 23, the 100-foot missile climbed slowly, wobbled and then was blasted apart because of some failure of one or more of its intricate parts.

The Jupiter has been fired several times and is considered to be the most effective rocket of its type in the U.S. arsenal.

Americans to Observe Thanksgiving

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Americans prepared today to give thanks for still another year's harvest of freedom and abundance, but the shadow of President Eisenhower's illness darkened somewhat the usual joyful spirit of the time.

Prayers for the President's swift and complete recovery will be said tomorrow in many morning religious services which have been an integral part of Thanksgiving ever since the Pilgrims first celebrated it.

Otherwise, reports from across the country indicated that Americans will follow the patterns set in past years.

They will rush from city to country, from country to city, and from village to village, jamming trains, planes, buses and private cars to join friends and relatives for the day. Some will make it a four-day weekend. To accommodate all, railroads, airlines and bus companies are scheduling extra facilities.

One of the most unusual church services tomorrow will be held in the DeWitt Church in an unheated, as yet unfinished building of the Bernard Baruch housing project in Manhattan's lower East Side. Nondenominational services will be held in English, Spanish and French in the public housing project in the city.

In Plymouth, Mass., the Mayflower II—replica of the original Pilgrim ship—will be turned over today to the Plymouth Plantation in colorful, costumed ceremonies. Tomorrow, there will be a town-wide open house, with costumed attendants playing host at such spots as Pilgrim Hall, the first church, Sparrow House and the old fort. In the afternoon, there will be the traditional Pilgrim procession by costumed townspeople marching from Plymouth Rock to church.

Guard Cost Now Is $3.7 Million

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The cost of federalizing the Arkansas National Guard to enforce court-ordered integration at Central High School here is about $3,750,000 so far, an Arkansas Military Department spokesman said yesterday.

The heaviest outlay was during the first week, after Sept. 2, when the entire guard force of 10,800 was federalized.

New England Is Gripped by Cold

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Freezing temperatures gripped the New England states area early today and the whole of the Eastern Coast, down to northern Florida, remained chilly.

Another cool air mass brought temperatures tumbling in the Northwest. The cool front extended to Montana and Wyoming. There were snow flurries in the northern and central Rockies and parts of Montana.

Southerly winds over the Mississippi Valley and the western Great Lakes accounted for a warming trend in the central portion of the country.

The cold weather along the Eastern Seaboard produced numbing temperatures in New England with a low of 1 above zero at Burlington, Vt., and 5 above at Lebanon, N. H. Temperatures along the seaboard from New England to northern Florida, were at the 0-degree mark.

Santa Claus Coming Here on December 5

Santa Claus will be in Hope Dec. 5, for the annual Christmas parade. That was the official word from Santa's north pole headquarters, received here yesterday by Pete Hefflin and James McVay who head the local parade committee.

The parade theme this year has been announced as "The Birth of Christ." The committee indicates that there will be 29 units in the procession which will be routed through downtown Hope beginning at 7 o'clock on the night of Thursday, Dec. 5. The colorful and inspiring event is being sponsored jointly by the Yvonne's and Retail Merchants of Hope.

In his message to the parade committee, Santa indicated that he would return to his workshop for some last minute preparations.

"But," he concluded, "I will be back in Hope for the week beginning Dec. 18. I will be on the streets to greet the children and will be visiting in the stores."

Chairman Hefflin and Morrow urged everyone in the Hope area to be sure and be in the city to greet Santa on his 1957 visit to this section.

Soldier Charged in Strangulation

YOKOHAMA (UP)—The U. S. Army today formally charged a young Michigan soldier with the strangulation murder of the Japanese wife of a U. S. Navy man now serving in California.

Charged with the slaying of 25-year-old Kazuo Eikawa, Westcott was 330 Gregory J. Kupski, 23, Detroit, Mich.

Mrs. Westcott's nearly nude body was found in a Yokohama alley Nov. 17. The Army announced Nov. 23 that Kupski had confessed to the crime.

Her husband, ADIC Robert Leslie Westcott, Vineland, N. J., currently is stationed at the China Lake Naval Air Station in California with the VXS Experimental Squadron. They were married in Japan May 19, 1956, while he was stationed at Alsbury Naval Air Station near here, and their marriage was registered with the U. S. embassy in Tokyo.

The Army said murder charges were made formally after a "thorough" investigation by Japanese and U. S. military police.

Difficult to Fix Blame for Missile Lag

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) said today the Senate Preparedness subcommittee is having extreme difficulty determining who is responsible for what in the lagging missile and satellite programs.

Johnson, majority leader of the Senate and chairman of the committee, told reporters: "I do not believe in shaking everything up and turning things upside down. But we will have to find out how to streamline the organization."

The committee recalled Allen Dulles, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, and Dr. Herbert Seaville, director of the CIA's Office of Scientific Intelligence, for further closed-door questioning.

The first phase of the hearings will wind up sometime tonight when the committee will recess until Dec. 13.

"There is one clear pattern that has emerged from all of the testimony thus far," Johnson said, "It is the extreme difficulty of pinning down lines of authority in the missile and satellite program."

"It is obvious that the committee will have to inquire very carefully into who is running what."

Rep. Ford (R-Mich.), a member of the House Defense Appropriations subcommittee, told newsmen most members of that group favor production for both the Army and the Air Force intermediate range ballistic missiles. He did not indicate how soon a decision may be expected on production orders.

If the Army's Jupiter is accepted for production, he said, it will be made at a Detroit plant of the Chrysler Corp.

The Senate subcommittee summarized the secret testimony of the CIA representatives in a formal statement issued by Johnson. It quoted them as saying the Soviet economy has been growing "relatively faster" than that of the United States.

UN Tackles the Algerian Situation

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—U. N. diplomats tackle the festering Algerian situation today amid new talk of mediation between France and its North African rebels.

The heated question was before the U. N. Assembly Political Committee for renewed debate.

Arab delegates expressed hope that the United States and Britain would support mediation of the three-year-old rebellion. The delegates attached considerable importance to current talks in Washington of King Mohammed V of Morocco.

The King and President Habib Bourguiba of Tunisia offered their good offices last week for negotiations in which France would accept Algerian sovereignty as a starting point. The French, who contend Algeria is part of metropolitan France, rejected the offer.

French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau said Morocco and Tunisia are not neutral in the struggle of their Arab neighbors. Pineau was scheduled to present the French position in the 82-nation committee's debate.

Likely to Open More Graves in Gein Case

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Atty. Gen. Stewart Honeck planned to confer today with District Attorneys Earl Kileen of Wausau County and John Haka of adjacent Portage County on the question of opening more graves which Ed Gein said he had plundered.

Any decision, Honeck said, would be made by mutual agreement of his office and local authorities.

Honeck also announced that another lie detector test would be given Gein, 51-year-old bachelor of rural Plainfield who has admitted killing two middle-aged women and robbing the graves of nine others.

Honeck said the purpose of the additional tests was to determine whether Gein was involved in other killings. Gein is undergoing 30 days of mental observation.

Gein's attorney William Belter of Wautoma, said he had no objection to more lie tests for Gein but that he would doubt their reliability if Gein is judged insane.

"Gein is apparently trying to tell people honestly what happened," Belter said. "But perhaps he doesn't remember some things."

President Reportedly Doing Fine, Able to Sign State Documents

Wall Street Braces for New Slump

NEW YORK (AP)—Wall Street braced itself today for the possible effects on the stock market of President Eisenhower's illness.

News the President has suffered a closure of a small artery in the brain hit the New York market yesterday 20 minutes before the close. In those last 20 minutes were dumped at steadily declining prices.

After the New York market closed, the drop continued on the Pacific Coast Exchange.

Some Wall Street experts, however, felt the selling may have been more hysterical than realistic. These analysts insisted there was no change in the administration's program, which has been leaning toward increased expenditures for defense.

Thus it was felt the market might get good support from those who felt the price break offered an alluring buying opportunity.

Gerald M. Loeb, a partner in E. F. Hutton & Co., for example, said he expected the weakness resulting from the President's illness to be confined to the initial shock and be relatively short in duration.

The market's break in yesterday carried leading stocks down as much as $7 a share. It cut an estimated 4 1/2 billion dollars from the quoted value of all stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

This drop in value was based on 60 stocks, which fell $3.60 to $154.60. There were 171 advances and 362 declines. New highs for the year totaled 7 while new lows amounted to 72.

Volume expanded to 3,650,000 shares compared with 2,600,000 shares on Monday.

Financial End of Industrial Plan Explained

The $250,000 Hempstead County Industrial Foundation fund must have the united and wholehearted support of every citizen, Dr. Sam Strong told a joint meeting of the Hope Lions and Business & Professional Women's clubs in an address given last night at Hotel Barlow.

"It was raised in Arkadelphia. That town for years and years was a dead town, but in recent months some of those fellows awoke to the fact that industry was on the move, coming to towns that worked, sacrificed and raised industrial funds. All of you know that they were rewarded first with the big Reynolds plant, and second with the new Teatium plant. Dr. Strong told the group.

Dr. Strong pointed out that the $250,000 fund was not only for new industry, but could be used for the expansion of local industry in the form of new buildings and more space. It's a revolving fund that can be used over and over again as the industry repays its loan in monthly rental or rent and sale contracts.

"The $250,000 fund is actually the equivalent to a one-million-dollar jackpot because under existing laws only 25 percent is required of local money. The balance can be financed by the state and through sale of bonds.

"Here's the way you can invest in the future of Hope and Hempstead county. You will be requested to sign a pledge card. You pay 10 percent down and 10 percent each year until paid in full. As you pay, you will be issued stock certificates in the industrial corporation at $3 per share. We hope you will get all your money back, plus all the benefits that come with new and expanded industrial payrolls.

"Here's another thing about the pledge card. In the event a million dollars was needed for new buildings, then all the $250,000 would be required at once. You would then be called upon to pay the pledge in full. . . . or go to the bank and borrow it as they did in Arkadelphia and other towns.

"In closing, I would like to say that we united on the Millwood Dam project. We can do the same on this industrial fund. I want to pay tribute to our present industrial concerns, the backbone of our town, and I want to point out to you that we have everything in Hope, railways, highways, schools, churches, hospitals, and above all else the best people on earth."

Physician Blocks Any Idea of a New Emergency

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House announced today President Eisenhower, on his own motion, signed and initiated some government documents.

President's press secretary James C. Hagerty said the ailing Eisenhower met for half an hour in his bedroom with Gen. Andrew J. Goodpastor, White House staff secretary.

Eisenhower is under treatment for what his physicians describe as an occlusion or blockage in a brain artery. The popular term for that is a slight stroke.

Hagerty said Eisenhower talked to Goodpastor about "some pending government business" as well as signing and initiating the papers.

Earlier, the President's doctor, Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, had reported he slept well and awoke refreshed.

A brief medical bulletin said Eisenhower "took his usual shower and ate and just had a normal breakfast."

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's doctor said today "everything is all right" with the chief executive. But the circumstances made clear his aim was to scotch any idea of a new emergency rather than to give Eisenhower a clean bill of health.

The physician, Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, spoke briefly with newsmen as he entered the White House around 8 a.m. That was only about eight hours after he had left the bedside of his patient, suffering from blockage of a brain artery.

Shortly afterward, Snyder followed up with a brief statement through James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, which said:

"The President slept almost continuously throughout the night. He awoke refreshed this morning. He took his usual shower and shave and has just had a normal breakfast."

Hagerty told reporters Eisenhower was in "fine" spirits. He said he spent 10 minutes with him.

In answer to questions, Hagerty said Eisenhower still has a "slight difficulty" in speaking long words. An earlier medical report had said the President suffered an impairment of speech which had been largely overcome.

Hagerty said Eisenhower was aware of his "slight difficulty" in enunciating some words and was "Continued on Page Three"

French-British Talk Makes No Progress

PARIS (AP) — British Prime Minister Macmillan and French Premier Felix Gaillard ended their two days of talks today but apparently did not succeed in smoothing over completely the basic differences that brought them together.

The two leaders were anxious to remove a thorn in the NATO Alliance — the British-American supply of small arms to Tunisia which the French fear will wind up in the hands of Algerian rebels.

A communiqué said the two premiers agreed "that responsibility for a solution of the Algerian question lies with France."

But a spokesman said this did not mean Britain would not deliver any more arms to Tunisia.

The communiqué by recording the premiers' conviction that "France should continue to discharge her special responsibilities in North Africa where she has traditionally a leading position" was placating to this country.

A spokesman added that no special new machinery had been set up for consultation.

The communiqué announced that the two ministers also agreed there should be a more precise definition of interdependence and solidarity among the NATO allies "in accordance with the spirit of equality" at the NATO summit meeting here in mid-December.

This was a reference to French fears that plans for pooling resources and knowledge to meet the threat of Soviet missiles, and satellites and give to Britain and the United States predominance in nuclear power and assign inferiority to the other members.

Standing with Gaillard in the Hotel Matignon, where the talks ended, he told newsmen: "I think we have made great progress. But of course there are a number of problems for the future."

Both were almost stony faced.

Macmillan made his statement in French and refused to repeat it in English.

THE STORY: After Hugo Howell asks Jim Bennett, a private investigator, to break up an affair between Wayne Howell, the client's son, and a woman named Sandra, Jim tells the father that Wayne is already married.

CHAPTER IX

He didn't leap to his feet, shout at me or do anything I expected. He just sat very still, staring at me, an incredulous look in his eyes. When he spoke I could hardly hear him. "How do you know?"

"Your son told me last night. He suspects that you hired me to break up his affair with the woman — I told you that — and he said I was wasting my time because he and the woman are already married. When will he be 25?"

"Next month," he said dully. "If I could just have stalled it off a little longer . . . When did he get married?"

"He didn't say." "He might have told me," he said with sudden bitterness. "I'm his father." He paused, and something like a gleam of hope entered his eyes. "Maybe he's lying."

"Maybe," I said. "Look," he said suddenly. "If you're squeamish about doing what I wanted, will you check for me, find out if they are really married? And get the woman's background, all of it? Wayne won't talk to me. He — he's bitter, because he thinks I didn't treat his mother — like I should have. Maybe he's right about that, but it's too late now." He sighed. "Will you do that much for me?"

What he was suggesting now was within the legitimate and ethical boundaries of the profession, and I felt much better about the whole thing. I could now accept the job with a clear conscience and at the same time please the old man in New York.

I said, "Yes, I can do that, but didn't those other men you hired learn the woman's background?"

He shook his head. "They didn't do a thing but follow her around and try to catch her with another man. She was smart, because they never did. Wayne caught one of them and bent him up. I even went to her myself and begged her to lay off Wayne, tried to buy her off. But she just laughed at me. She knows the ropes, all right."

I said, "Have you thought that maybe she is really okay, that she loves your son and will make him a good wife?"

He sighed and pulled a hand down over his unshaven face, making a dry, rasping sound. "Bennett," he said heavily, "let's face it, right now it's the money. Of course, I want the boy to marry the right sort of woman, a — a decent one, but this woman is no good and she's got him hooked. Maybe if she was the right sort I'd go along with it and try and get Wayne to wait until he's 25 before he gets married, make a deal with him. But she'll ruin the boy, and —"

"All right," I broke in. "I understand. No matter if the woman is good or bad, it's still the money. Is that it?"

"Yes," he said bleakly. "That's the way I like it." I said, "on the line. I figured you weren't too concerned about your son's happiness."

He moved a hand helplessly. "It's not exactly that way. After all, he's my own flesh and blood. But he could have waited another month. He knows about the terms of the trust agreement."

"Maybe he'll still split with you."

He shook his head. "No, he won't. He's like his mother was — afraid I'll squander the money, throw it away. Oh, he might dribble some of it out to me, peanuts, but I can't live like that."

"I'll try and learn if they're really married, and if so, when and where. And I'll do some digging into the woman's past. After all, you'll know better where you stand, and can take it from there. But I can't promise a thing."

"Okay," he said grudgingly. "If that's the best you can do. He looks a roll of bills from a trouser pocket. 'If you need money . . . daily rate plus expenses. If you want to know what —'

"Never mind," he said impatiently. "A few bucks one way or the other don't matter now."

"I'll know in a day or two whether I can do you any good."

He sighed and reached for the bottle. "Last ditch," he said gloomily.

He poured whisky, drank and sat holding the bottle and glass. "The woman's name is Sandra."

Osterman. She and her brother have a cottage up on Catalina Island. He's a — a geologist, a professor. I told you Wayne is staying with them this summer, helping the professor with some work he's doing up there."

I crossed a causeway to the island and drove slowly, watching for Maribha Beach. Presently I saw the gleam of the lake through the trees ahead and emerged into an open space, saw a landscaped lawn and a stone parking area beside a small two-story pink stucco building.

As I got out of my car, a shapeless, tanned girl in a scanty white bathing suit sauntered past. She had tawny sun-bleached hair, wore dark sun glasses. She glanced at me impersonally, tossed a strand of yellow hair back from her forehead and moved on, her hips undulating gently. I watched her for a moment, thinking that if she was a sample of the beach clientele I might some day spend a holiday here.

I made inquiries at the hotel and learned that the last cottage was the Osterman place.

amused by it. "He would make a little slip and he would laugh and correct it," Hagerty said.

Asked if Eisenhower also was afflicted by some impairment of memory, a condition that often goes along with the speech difficulty in such cases, Hagerty replied:

"There certainly didn't seem to be."

Hagerty added that Eisenhower asked him many questions about old friends in NATO circles.

Hagerty returned ahead of time last night from Paris where he was making arrangements for Eisenhower's previously planned participation in the NATO summit conference in mid-December.

The press secretary declined to go beyond a statement issued by the State Department yesterday, in consultation with the White House, saying "it is assumed" Eisenhower will not be able to attend because of his illness. Hagerty said he knew nothing about reports Vice President Nixon might attend in place of the President.

By MARVIN L. ARROWSWORTH

WASHINGTON (U)—Doctors maintained a close watch over President Eisenhower today after diagnosing his illness as blockage of a brain artery branch. Slight stroke is the usual term for that condition.

The doctor revealed no great alarm over the President's condition.

They did not use the word "stroke" in their cautiously phrased bulletins, written in technical medical language. They said the seizure, suffered Monday afternoon, had caused Eisenhower "slight difficulty in speaking."

The new ailment—the President's third major illness in a bit more than two years—raised big questions once more about his future health and role in government.

The doctors described the illness—called nothing more than a chill by the White House for nearly 21 hours—as mild. They said the prospect for the President's complete recovery within a reasonable period is excellent.

But even team of examining physicians said Eisenhower will have to rest and be restricted to "substantially decreased activity" for several weeks.

No hospitalization is planned, the medical bulletins said. The White House added that the President already has been up part of the time in walking around his living quarters.

The new illness caused cancellation of Eisenhower's plans to attend a Paris NATO Council meeting which had been scheduled for Dec. 16-18. James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, returned late last night from the French capital, where he had been making arrangements for the NATO session.

Hagerty reported shortly after midnight that Eisenhower was sleeping soundly. A doctor and a nurse were on duty near the President's bedroom.

The press secretary said Eisenhower had a light supper. He and Mrs. Eisenhower ate from tray in the living room area, then watched television together for a little more than two hours.

The President turned in at 10 p. m. and went promptly to sleep. During the afternoon he had undergone another thorough medical check.

DOROTHY DIX

Boy Has Reformed
Give Him Chance

Dear Dorothy Dix: Orville and I met a month ago, became friends — and in that month I have met more opposition than I ever before. My folks could give. They like Orville, but have one thing against him. Last year he drifted into bad company, had a brief tussle with the law over some stolen car-parts, and reckless driving.

Today he says he's sorry for his actions, that he was just a stupid kid, and he proves his sincerity — to me, at least, by the fact that he hasn't gone with any of the old crowd since, and is now a model and careful driver. Don't you think his previous actions should be forgiven? DIXIE

Dear Dixie: Orville certainly sounds like a reformed character, and since your parents apparently let you see and date him, don't crowd the issue. You know, where the welfare of a cherished daughter is concerned, parents can't be too careful. Your well-being is a big issue, and your folks will consider it where you, perhaps, would sacrifice ultimate happiness for a present of doubtful pleasure. Rely on your folks, Dixie; I'm sure their judgment will prove satisfactory to you.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am a young chap just out of England. I left a girl back home but as I'm not sure of my love for her, I would like to meet someone here before making up my mind. I've become fairly well acquainted with the girls at work, but they are all older than I am. Should I continue seeing them, or send for Sylvia?

Dear Tony: I hope you wouldn't be so inconsiderate as to bring a girl clear across the ocean when you're not sure of your feelings toward her! As she steps off the plane (or boat) you would quite likely decide against her; then what's the girl to do? Go back to England a jilted fiancée?

Don't send for Sylvia unless you are quite convinced that she's the one and only girl for you.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My girl friend is consistently making early remarks about a boy I like. What do you suggest I do? LOIS L.

Dear Lois: Since the girl is only doing this to upset you, resolve not to let it bother you. Parry her remarks with "Well, I think he's nice!" Or, "Funny, you're the only one who says anything mean about him." When she fails to get a rise out of you, she'll stop.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm a high-school junior, going steady with a college freshman. He goes to school out of town and I only see him weekends. My parents firmly believe that a girl my age should be home by 11 or 11:30. Several times, however, I've forgotten the time and arrived home an hour late. They punish me by suspending dating privileges for a weekend or so. I'm so disgusted I've been thinking of running off and getting married.

Dear Sandra: I sincerely hope you are only thinking about this foolish step. Your parents are very liberal with their rules. The least you can do is give them as much consideration as they give you. Learn now one of the rules that helps keep this world in order — a regard for time.

Europe and Asia often are spoken of as a single continent, Eurasia, because no ocean divides them.

Nixon Ready for Role of a Substitute

By JACK SELL

WASHINGTON (U)—Vice President Nixon stepped gingerly into the role of a part-time substitute for ailing President Eisenhower today with clear notice Eisenhower will continue to call the signals on government policies.

A proposal by Sen. Bridges (R-NH) that Nixon take over for the stricken President at two scheduled briefings of congressional leaders next week seemed likely to get Eisenhower's approval. Nixon said the meetings will be held but added he did not know whether he would preside.

Bridges who heads the Senate Republican Policy Committee, said he thinks Nixon "should take over the leadership routine matters for the President, carrying on the known general wishes and policy of the President."

Sen. Saltonstall of Massachusetts, chairman of the Conference of All Republican Senators, indicated general agreement with this view.

"Things have to go on," he said.

The Postmaster says he is making advance preparations to handle the Christmas rush with expanded facilities all around. So, now, it is really up to you!

It's very important to plan your Christmas mailings so that those Christmas cards and gifts for most distant points are mailed first. Try to get all lot your out-of-town cards and gifts into the Post Office, before Dec. 10th, and those for near-by points should be mailed by December 15th.

and other facts may be reverted in his mind. "It is so, what value is a lie detector test?"

Two graves in Plainfield Cemetery were opened Monday and the caskets were found empty. Kileen said the opening of the graves verified Gein's story, an added, "I won't open any more if I can help it."

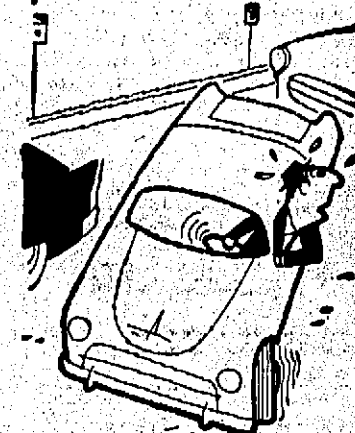

Honeck has been directed by Gov. Verdon Thomson to investigate all phases of Gein's case.

Gein had pleaded innocent by reason of insanity to a charge of first-degree murder in the death of Mrs. Bernice Woren, 58-year-old Plainfield hardware store operator Nov. 10. He also admitted killing Mrs. Mary Hogan, 54, who disappeared from her rural tavern in Portage County in December 1954.

"The government can't stop." But Sen. Carroll (D-Colo.) commented that "it's one thing to carry out policy and another to make it."

Nixon scheduled further conferences with presidential staff members today at the White House—where he spent most of yesterday without seeing the ill President. He told newsmen when he emerged he might preside over Cabinet and National Security Council meetings.

But in response to what he called "a hypothetical question" about who in the government would make a decision on retaliation if Russia suddenly attacked Western Europe, the vice president replied: "Any decision requiring presidential action could be made by the President. Major problems that require presidential decision, where the President alone can act, will be put to the President."

Lawrence, Kan. (AP)—Officials of the University of Kansas today met with football coach Jack Mitchell of Arkansas to discuss regarding the head coaching vacancy at KU.

Mitchell, a native of Kansas and a former coach at Wichita University, is regarded as the top candidate for the job.

Dutch Longbr, Kansas athletic director, said last night, "I am unable to comment on the date or time of possible announcement of a replacement for Coach Chuck Mather."

Mather's resignation was effective at the end of the season.
A Little Rock, Ark., paper said the Democrat reported yesterday that two college coaches had been contacted about the possibility of taking over the coaching job at Arkansas if Mitchell leaves.

Sports Editor Jack Keagy said
Tommy Prothro of Oregon State and Jim Myers of Iowa State had already been contacted by Razor-back boosters.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Cleveland Browns are doing the National League up Brown-Jimmy Brown that is.

Brown (Jimmy) virtually is running Coach Brown's (Paul) Browns (Cleveland) to the NFL's Eastern Conference title and possibly a league championship. The former Syracuse All-American broke the league record last Sunday for yards gained in a single game to take a commanding lead in the race for individual ground gaining honors.

Brown gained 237 yards in 31
attempts to boost his league leading total to 769 yards on 161 carries, an average of 4.8 yards.
He's 197 yards ahead of Dick Casper of the Chicago Bears who moved from third to second place with 572 yards on 155 attempts, a 3.7 average.

Cleveland also has the league's passing in Tommy O'Connell, former Illinois star. O'Connell has averaged 10 yards per pass on 68 completed of 98 thrown for 1,027 yards and 6 touchdowns. Eddie LeBaron, Washington's quarterback, is second with a 9.2 average on 78 for 128, 1,187 yards, 3
TDs. Baltimore's John Walz, who leads all passers in touchdown passes with 10, ranks third in overall passing with figure of 117 for 205, 1,700 yards, 2.5 average.

Mitchell May Make Decision Sometime Today

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—The question of whether or when Arkansas Coach Jack Mitchell will fill the coaching vacancy at the University of Kansas remained up in the air today.

A conference between Mitchell and Kansas athletic officials was scheduled either here or at Lawrence, Kan.

Kansas Athletic Director Dutch
Longbr said he did not interview
Mitchell here last night despite a report to that effect. Longbr said the meeting is set for today.

Longbr said there are more than 50 candidates for the job relinquished by Coach Chuck Mather last Saturday.

At Little Rock, Orville Henry, sports editor of the Arkansas Gazette, quoted a Kansas source as saying Mitchell would accept the position in his home state before the week is out.

Henry also quoted University of Arkansas officials as saying there was a 50-50 chance Mitchell would continue with the Razorbacks.

Mitchell, who left Fayetteville, Ark., with his wife yesterday, has insisted he did not receive an offer from Kansas—and would go into discussions with an open mind.

The former University of Oklahoma quarterback is expected back at Fayetteville tomorrow night before leaving. Mitchell conferred with Arkansas Athletic Director John Barnhill.

At Little Rock, sports editor
Jack Keagy of the Arkansas Democrat, said two coaches have been contacted by Arkansas about the possibility of assuming Mitchell's post if he leaves.

Keagy said Tommy Prothro, coach at Oregon State, 1936 Pacific Coast champion, and Jim Myers of Iowa State have been contacted.

But at Gresham, Ore., last night
Prothro said he plans to return next year as football coach at Oregon State.

"No one has offered me a job," Prothro told a high school sports dinner. "I'm very happy at Oregon State and I intend to stay there."

Prothro declined comment on whether Arkansas boosters had
